GEORGIA JUDGES

WHO SIT UPON THE UNITED STATES COURT BENCH

HANDLED BY MR. B. H. HILL In His Testimony Before the Judiciary Committee—The Silver Bill May Be Voted on Next Week. Washington, February 10 .- [Special.]-In the report of the judiciary committee on its investigation of the violations of United States laws by judges, commissioners, and mony of Mr. B. H. Hill, of Atlanta, who says that Judge McKay, after he became affect mentally and physically, suspended sentence in nearly every case of conviction for violation of internal revenue laws. Following this Mr. Hill says:

"He has an unrivaled record in that respect, except Judge Emory Speer, who sused every one.'

This statem ent is incornorated as part of the report. Mr. Hill further says: "The first term of the court held after I became district attorney was held by Judge Speer, who is judge of the district court of the southern district of Georgia. My recollection is that be suspended every sentence upon the plea of guilty or verdict of guilty immediately, or a days thereafter, with one exception. That exception was, he sent a man to the Albany penitentiary for two years. I am satisfied the records will show there was not one ed during that term of court, except this man Brown, who was sent to the Albany penitentiary. Judge Speer could not assign any reason for that, except that he would say to the man: 'This is the first time you have een before me, and I will let you off,' with the statement that 'if you come back I will send you to the penitentiary,' but he gave no other reason for it. I objected to the suspensions as well as I could.'

The committee takes occasion to say that the present judge of the northern district of orgia "has observed the law and avoided this practice."

The Silver Bill.

It is now quite certain that the house coinage committee will report a silver bill, either the latter part of this week or the first of next, Speaker Reed said today he thought the appropriation bills would be out of the way by Saturday, and next week the house could proceed with other business. This means that a vote can be had on a silver bill of some kind resort to filibustering, and have Reed's aid in However, there are some who believe today that Mr. Harrison will be embarrassed by a free coinage bill going to the white house before the end of the session. The advocates of the subsidy bill say today that Reed has promised two days of next week for the consideration of that measure. As a consequence the large and wealthy lobby is working vigorously for otes. They declare tonight the bill will pass by a small majority.

The Treasury Portfolio, General Goff, of West Virginia, had a conterence with the president today, presumably about the vacant treasury portfolio. Tonight he said with a smile, "An Ohio man will be given the office, and that man will not be Mc-Kinley."

The bills providing for federal courts at both Athens and Columbus passed the house last session, and have since been pending in the senate judiciary committee. Mr. Carlton and Mr. Grimes have been urging the committee to report for months. The chances are both bills will be reported within a few days. In that event they can be rushed through and become laws before the expiration of the present session.

At Mr. Grimes's request, the senate appropriation committee, which now has the sun-dry civil appropriation bill under consideration, today promised to make provision in that bill for the immediate appropriation of the $100,000 to be used in purchasing a site and constructing the Columbus public building.

Mr. Grimes has also already called upon the supervising architect to prepare plans for the handsomest building that can be constructed within the appropriation. He will have a man sent at a very early date from the architect's office to examine all sites that might be offered, and to select the best.

Indeed, Mr. Grimes is determined to have the actual work on the building commence as soon as possible, and he will see to it that the

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATIONS.

The Senate Takes Up the Bill-Amendments Acted Upon. WASHINGTON, February 10 .- The house bill t

stablish a customs district of Tennessee, with a substitute constituting Nashville, Tenn., a port of delivery, was taken up and passed.

A conference was asked, and Messrs, Dolph, Washburn and Kenna were appointed conferee

Washburn and Kenna were appointed conferees on the part of the senate.

The naval appropriation bill was taken up.

Mr. Hale said that the appropriations made in the bill for the running expenses of the navy department, aside from the teonstruction of new ships, were between $600,000 and $700,000 less than the appropriation for last year. It was one of the good results of the building of new ships that expenses which were formerly made on old wooden ships had ceased, and the expenses of bureaus in regard to that kind of work had decreased. The bill, as reported, appropriated $31,564,000. The large items were for the carrying out of contracts on vessels herefore authorized by congress.

LESS THAN THE ESTIMATES.

LESS THAN THE ESTIMATES, As compared with the estimates, the bill appropriated $1,770,000 less. The only feature of the bill extending the work of building up the navy was the provision for one fast sailing protected cruiser. The committee on naval affairs had considered whether it would not be desirable to report an amendment increasing the number of new ships; but, on deliberation, it was thought not advisable to seek to add to the house proposition. In viewoof the fact that the navy department was filled with work on ships already authorized and in the course of construction, and that the yards of builders were fully employed, the secretary of the navy himself had thought that wisdom dictated that he should not press for any more new ships; and so the bill—in that respect—had been taken as it came from the house.

The two main terms of increase reported from the committee on appropriations were for two dry docks—one in South Carolina and one on the Pacific coast.

he first committee amendment that was lienged was the item of $25,000 for equipment and arms for naval militia in various states.

Messrs. Carlisle and Reagan thought this appropriation might be the beginning of a yearly lead to abuses.

Messrs. Hale, Hawley and Hoar combatte d this suggestion, and after the word "equipment" had been stricken out, leaving it read "for arms, for naval militia," only the amendment was agreed to. The next amendment reached was to insert a paragraph appropriating $150,000 to continue the construction of a timber dry dock at the coaling station at Port Royal, S. C. Agreed; to without question.

The next amendment was one providing for a dry dock on Columbia river, or on Pages Sound.

Several propositions to a mend it were presented to change the location and to leave the selection of location to the secretary of the navy.

of location to the secretary of the navy.

Hiscock's ignorance.

Some amusement was occasioned by an inquiry of Mr. Hiscock as to what difference there was between a dry dock and navy yard, Mr. Hale suggesting that the New York senator had never seen a dry dock; and Mr. Blair interpolated the remark that the question of a dry dock on the Pacific coast might be allowed to wait until the United States would be prepared to take possession of the big naval establishmentjacross the boundary line—meaning the Esquimaux.

No action on the amendment was reached.

Conference committees were ordered on the pension appropriation bill and on the army appropriation bill. Messrs. Allison, Dawes and Gorman are conferees on the first bill, and Messrs, Allison, Plumb and Washbirn on the second.

The legislative appropriation bill was taken up. In the general debate, the Barrundia case was re-In the general debate, the Barrundia case was revived by Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, who defended the action of Commander Reiter. The public reprimand administered to Commander Reiter by the secretary of the navy was, he said, unwarranted and unjust. A naval officer had been degraded by a public reprimand, without the intervention of a courtmartial. His case was the case of every officer in the service, but higher than that the case involved the conduct of our officers in respect to foreign powers. Barrundia had been a notorious Guatemalan, charged with the commission of nurder and the embezzlement of public funds as well as of high treason. He had come voluntarily within the jurisdiction of his own country at a time when he was resting under these charges. Barrundia was killed on the steamer Acaptele by the officers indertaking to arrest him, which officers he undertook to murder. At that time two United States ships-of-war, the Ranger and Thetis, lay in the roadstead, Commander Reiter being the commanding officer. He had not interfered with the arrest. The day after the killing, Reiter had been detached without any reason being assigned for the detachment. Three months afterwards, the secretary of the navy had addressed him a letter, which was printed in the public press before it was received by Commander Reiter. It was thus apparent that the letter was written by the secretary of the navy, not you commander Reiter alone, but to the general public. He (Dalzell) would not, he said stop to criticise the secretary's language and tone—his logic and rhetoric; but whatever language and tone, whatever that logic and rhetoric, the letter had become an open public reprimand of a naval officer, of heretofore unquestionable courage and fidelity to duty. It had placed a stigma on his name and a blight on his career. It took from him his dearest possession, and from his children their richest inheritance.

courage and fidelity to duty. It had placed a stigma on his name and a blight on his career. It took from him his dearest possession, and from his children their richest inheritance. To Commiss children their richest inheritance. To Commander Reiter's demand for a courtmartial, came the reply that his demand showed his ignorance of naval discipline. Could it be that and honorable officer, who had faithfully served his country for many years, was to be degraded and disgraced by the dictum of an official whose career began yesterday and might in the mutability of politics end tomorrow. If it could be so, it was high time that there should be some legislation on this subject. He (Dalzell) did not deny the power of the secretary of the navy to express his disapprova of the secretary to administer a public reprinand, in time of peece. If Commander Reiter merited a public performand, he merited dismissal from the navy. No secretary of the navy could administer punishment, the effect of which was dismissal, without the intervention of a courtmartial. He (Dalzell) stood on the bold, defiant ground that the secretary of the navy had exceeded his power when he wrote and published his letter to Reiter.

Mr. Lodge came to the defense of the secretary of the navy. When he heard the news of the littless of learned it on an abstract of the learned is a continuation.

Mr. Lodge came to the defense of the secretary of the mayy. When he heard the news of the killing of Barrundia on an American ship, he felt a shock of surprise and indignation that such a bloody occurrence had taken place under such circumstances. He had been, in common with other American citizens, ready to suspend judgment. Those facts were now before congress. The argument in the defense of Commander Reiter had been an able one, but he did feel, as, an American citizen, that the conduct of the American representatives at San Jose was a subject for regret. The course they had taken was a mistaken course. He (Lodge) could quote numerous cases in which reprimands San Jose was a subject for regret. The course they had taken was a mistaken course. He (Lodge) could quote numerous cases in which reprimands had been administered publicly by an executive officer. It was clear from precedents that the secretary of the navy had acted in accordance with a well-established practice. As ga matter of fact Barrundia had been arrosted under authority of the United States minister. Why was it that Guatemala took such pain, to get the authority of our minister. It was because Guatemala wanted Barrundia as a political refugee. Nobody would wish to make the United States flag cover a fugitive from justice. But Barrundia was a political refugee. It was easy to trump up charges against a man engaged in an unsuccessful revolution. He dared say that Barrundia's character was none of the best, but when he sailed under the American flag, it was a question of the right of asylum.

Was Barrundia entitled to the right of asylum from Commander Reiter? He (Lodge) thought he was.

Mr. Lodge believed that the duty of every

Mr. Lodge believed that the duty of every American officer was to take the chance of error in defense of the flag, not on legal technicalities. This question was wider than international law; it was a question of naval policy.

Mr. Dolittor, of lowa, also defended the action of the secretary of the navy. He trusted that the time would never come when passengers who were political refugees on American vessels, should want the protection that was necessary to preserve their rights and the traditions of the republic.

BOUTELLE SAYS TRACEY WAS WRONG. BOUTELLE SAYS TRACEY WAS WRONG.

Mr. Boutelle, of Maine, said that while he en tertained the greatest repectand esteem for the head of the navy department, he was so unfortunate as not to be able to commend the secretary's action towards Commander Reiter. He simply rose to say, that looking at the case from his owe standpoint, he would not have written the lette

mr. Fithian, of Illinois, opposed the shipping bill, and attacked Charles Hill, secretary of the shipping league, on account of his statement that he (Fithian) was a British emmissary. He denounced that statement as a lie and the author of it as an unmittigated liar.

Mr. Farquhar, of New York, briefly defended Mr. Hill, and, without disposing of the bill, the committee rose and the house adjourned.

THE ONLY ROAD TO SUCCESS IN 1892, A Letter Made Public Which it Is Alleged

Induced Governor Hill to Accept the Senatorship BALTIMORE, February 10.—The Sun tomorrow will publish a letter written by Henry Watterson to Governor Hill, which, The Sur says, was probably instrumental in bringing about the meeting of Governor Hill and ex-President Cleveland, and also of Hill taking the New York senatorship. Mr. Watterson' letter was prompted solely by his own convic-tions, and without the least consultation with any one. It is as follows:

Courier-Journal Office, Louisville, November 21, 1890.—My Dear Sir: I take leave to address you this letter as one of some millions of democrats who have never sought or held office, and who could not be induced to do so, but who are deeply concerned in the party's welfare, and who believe you to hold the key to it.

Inside of the state of New York there is a well night unanimous demand among the rank and file are deeply concerned in the party's welfare, and who believe you as hold the key to it.

Inside of the stake of New York there is a welf nigh unanises, she mand among the rank and flie of the democrate for the nomination of Mr. Cleveland. This is too strong for party leaders and managers to seest. I think I have some influence in Kentucky, but of that point, I should be overwhelmed in a state convention. If you should come to the national convention with the New York delegation solid against it, you would be overwhelmed. You are powerless to prevent it. But you can defeat the election of the ticket. There are democrate in every part of the union who believe that you did this in 1888. I know that to be false. I know exactly what happened, and I have steadily defended you in public and in private, but it will cling to you as long as you live—even as the bargain, intrigue and corruption story clung to Clay—and will meet you in every national convention, if it be not dissipated by some act on your part great enough to blot it out.

In default of this, if you have any hope of the presidency, it will defeat that.

My judgment is clear that if you could reconcile it with your judgment and feeling to make peace with Mr. Cleveland, and to take a delegation to the national convention in 1822 to put him in momination, you will save the party and place yourself upon an elevation you can never attain if you fail to do it. You would be received by the country with enthusiasm, be accepted at once as a Warwick, and I do not see how you could be kept out of the succession.

On the other hand, even if you succeeded in defeating the nomination of Mr. Cleveland, you will stand upon sinister and dangerous ground, with a stormy future before you.

These are plain words, and I have no relations with you which give me the right to offer you counsels. They may be disagreeable words, and I have no desire to obtrude upon your privacy. But they are true words, and I claim the right of a democrat, who has some knowledge of the country at l terests to ignore ceremony and them to you. In conclusion let me say that I shall, in any event, be glad to know you better, and that, meanwhile, I am, most sincerely, your friend, HENRY WATTERSON.

The Hon. David B. Hill.

GENERAL SHERMAN VERY ILL.

A Notice Upon the Door that the Bell Must Not Be Rung. NEW YORK, February 10.—A large notice was posted on the door at General Sherman's house tonight, at No. 73 West Seventy-first street, to the effect that the door bell must not be rung. An attendant was kept at the door to answer immediately the knock of any caller, reporter or friend who might call to inquire of the condition of the old general. With great difficulty it was learned that Drs. Janeway and Alexander were in the house, and would stay all night. Notwithstanding all this, the attendant at the door said the general was a little better than he was the day before and erysipelas had not set in.

LASHED BY CONVICTS.

RUSSIANS ADDING TO THEIR CRUEL-TIES TO THE HEBREWS.

INCENSED AT THE BRITISH PETITION. The Czar Has Instructed the Governors to Still Further Worry the Jews-

Young Recruits Are Treated. LONDON, February 10 .- A St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, of this city, telegraphs from St. Petersburg important facts in connection with the possible result of the return by the czar, without comment, of the Guild Hall memorial in favor of the unfortunate suffering Hebrews of Russia. The correspondent wires

"British sympathy has aggravated the Jews" hard lot, which was already so wretched that it seemed impossible for it to be worse. Yet, provincial governors have redoubled the severity of the laws. Where the statutes were inapplicable, governers have issued circulars and ukases to replace them.

THE BRITISH MEMORIAL DEPLORED. The Jews bitterly regret the British wellmeaning but injudicious zeal, which has ex-asperated, instead of soothing, the Russian bear. The daily severity practiced against families of unoffending men, women and children are incredible and wanton. Russia's reply to the lord mayor's respectful petition consists of secret circulars ordering her officials to rigorously administer the antisemitic laws, and to supply legal deficiency by their own decisions harmonious with tha by their own decisions, harmonious with the government's intolerant spirit. The Poles, after the rebellion of 1864, were less cruelly and less inhumanely treated than the Jews after the London indignation meeting.

GURKO'S CIRCULAR. General Gurko, governor of Warsaw, has ssued a circular relating how Jewish recruits are to be brought for medical inspection. The Jews, through the wretched lives they are forced to live, are physically degenerate, and have become the most striking embodiment of human life, continuing in spite of the gradual decay of vital functions. A majority of the Jewish recruits are found to be unfit for service.

'In the event of Christians being found unfit to perform the duties of a soldier, they are sent home and are finally released from military service. The Jewish recruits, on the other hand, are worried to death. They are sent home and are subject, during the period of three years to be recalled at any moment or ensuring and are subject, at any moment on suspicion of maligning. The recruit, consequently, returns to his home, hundreds of miles away, resumes his occupation, and a month later is suddenly ordered to reappear for medical examination. This process is repeated at intervals of a few months reappear for medical examination. The cess is repeated at intervals of a few during three years.

UNDER POLICE ESCORT. General Gurko considers this method to be insufficient, as it leaves the Jewish conscript the option of transporting himself, on foot or otherwise, to the town where the medical committee sits, and gives him dangerous liberty and opportunity to simulate illness. The result is that thenceforth the police are ordered to convey the Jews, on foot, to the town where the committee sits. The police are to arrest and imprison the recruits until the convict gang arrives, with which they are to proceed to the next prison, in company with murderers and the dregs of society, until they reach their destination.

LASHED BY CONVICTS. Young men, beginning life, are subject to a repetition of this process during three years until the youth wishes himself a soldier, serf or galley slave to save himself from the society of murderers and thieves who, while the Jewish recruits are in their gang, have the power of life or death over them-can blackpower of file or death over them—can black-mail them, whip them, maim them, oven kill them with impunity. The victims are fre-quently in delicate health, and including con-sumptive patients, who the Russian doctors declare are unable to bear the hardships of military service.

Report of the Department of Agricultur for February. WASHINGTON, February 10 .- Cotton returns of the estimated product, compared with last year the department of agriculture for February report the estimated product, compared with last year, the proportion sent from plantations, and the yield of lint to seed. The plants were prolific in boiling, and the boils opened so rapidly in the early autumn as to tax the capacity of the pickers and leave the cotton exposed to the weather, which was unusually moist.

There is consequently general complaint of discoloration, and to some extent injury of the fibro from some cause. An unusual amount of trash was gathered with the cotton that was thus exposed. The consolidation of county estimates, as returned by the reporters, makes 106 per cent as the product of last year. The state averages are as follows: North Carolina, which had a very small crop last year, 98; South Carolina, 106; Georgia, 105; Florida, 95; Alabamh, 104; Mississippl, 103; Louisiana, 95; Texas, 108; Arkansas, 102; Tennessee, 110.

Some correspondents claim that there has been an organized effort to hold back the delivery of the crop in the hope of better prices. Others report its rapid marketing to get the benefit of higher rates of the opening season. It is possible that both of these causes were operative, one early in the season; the other later, counteracting the early movement. The proportions sent from plantations are thus reported: North Carolina 86 per cent, South Carolina 85, Georgia 85, Florida 90, Alabama 80, Mississippl 80, Louisiana 90, Texas 89, Arkansas 55, Tennessee 85. General average 87. The proportion of lint to seed is reported at 32 to 33 per cent, the better results being in the Atlantic coast states and in Louisiana and Texas.

The Sun's Cotton Review. New York, February 10.—Futures opened at three points decline, further declined and then advanced, closing steady at one point advance on near and partially one point decline on late months from yesterday's closing prices. Liverpool declined smartly under rumors regarding the report that was to come from the department of agriculture, and we responded with a drop of four to six points. The report from Washington was variously construed; in fact, was quite delphic in its utterances. You could buy it, if you were a bull; make quite sure of a crop no larger than 750,000, while if you were a bear a crop of 8,250,000 was as plain as the nose on your face. Our own estimate, based upon this report, is 8,056,000 bales, not a great excess in yield when we take the poor quality and increased consumption into account. At any rate, the decline was soon checked; a quick recovery followed with large buying for Angust, and nothing but the fact that short interest was small saved the market from a "boom" of some importance. Spot cotton was quiet.

GOVERNOR NORTHEN IS PRESENT.

An Enthusiastic Reception Greets the Dele gates-The Programme For Today-An Interesting Session Ahead.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 10.-[Special.]-

The agricultural society came in a lump tonight on the 7 o'clock train. There are about 150 members here and over a hundred are quartered at the DeSoto. Colonel Waddell says a great many more will come in tomorrow, and it is safe to count on an attendance of 275 or more.

Governor Northen was met at the depot by a ommittee consisting of Colonel John Screven, General G. M. Sorrell, ex-Mayor Schwartz, Captain D. G. Purse, Colonel J. H. Estill and Colonel J. L. Warren. The governor was escorted to the DeSoto, where dinner was in waiting. Directly after dinner, the executive committee went into executive session and did not adjourn till 11 o'clock. The time, after routine business had been disposed of, was devoted to arrangements for the state fair. Governor Northen was in the chair and the meeting was entirely harmonious. One important item was the establishment of an educational department in connection with the fair on the line projected by Governor Northen last fall.

School Commissioner Bradwell was put at the head of the new department, and Governor Northen volunteered to be one of the commit-

Story, was arrested here today by Sheriff Harding, and will be detained in the walls of the penitentiary till the sheriff of Holmes county comes for him. He is wanted in Holmes county upon the charge of jail-break ing and liberating his brother Eugene, pending his sentence of death and appeal to supreme court in January, 1890. It is that he has twice been arrested upon this charge, but managed to elude the officers. He went to the penitentiary today and asked to see his brother. The keepers refused to admit him at first, but being apprised that he was "wanted," let him in. In the meantime, Governor Stone had sent for Sheriff Harding, who was on hand, and as Story came out of the prison, "took him in." COLONEL HOOPER'S SWORD.

Mr. Alex Moffett Tells What He Knows About It. TENNILLE, Ga., Feb. 10 .- [Special.]-The story of Colonel Hooper's missing sword, published in SUNDAY'S CONSTITUTION, was read with interest here. As the story concluded by expressing surprise that Mr. Moffet "dropped out" so quick after having been prominent at first, that gentleman was interviewed, and "I had known since the close of the war that my sister-in-law, Mrs. E. M. Polhill, had in her possession this sword, and in a conversation with a gentleman from Boston, several months ago, I mentioned the facts as I remembered them, and informed him that I could get it if the owner could be found, and asked him to make inquiry on his return to Boston. As that time I was not aware that the sword was out of her possession and lost and improthat time I was not aware that the sword was out of her possession and lost, and immediately requested my wife to write to Mrs. Polhill on the subject. Before Mrs. Polhill's reply to this letter I received one from Mr. Harper, from Boston, making inquiries about the sword. This letter and others, addressed to me here, I immediately forwarded to Mrs. Polhill, who from that time conducted the correspondence entirely with Colonel Harper. I, having done all in my power, dropped out, as the article has it.

The Work the Farmers Have Accomplished

for the Benefit of the Order. HARTWELL, Ga., February 10 .- [Special.]-The alliance of Hart county is not troubling itself about local or national politics, but has gone to work in earnest and in a business way, to benefit its membership. Last year nearly every suballiance in the county money enough to run its membership for cash, basing the estimate on an economical adminis tration of each man's family government. As a consequence there were no unpaid bills to the merchant when the crop was made, ex-cept perhaps in cases where the cash did not hold out.

The money was obtained in this way: Five or six of the best men in each suballiance would make a note for enough money for all.

The cash was then distributed to each memcording to his estimated needs. the crop was gathered the money was brought in by each man in accordance with the talents he had received, and turned over to the makers of the bank note, who in turn paid off the note in bank. In this way men who were entirely unable to get money from the bank, got money and paid the merchant cash for his meat and

GOULD IS GONE,

After Having Been Royally Treated by the People of Brunswick.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., February 10.-[Special.]-The millionaire party were taken in charge at Bo'clock by fifteen prominent gentlemen and carried around the harbor in the steamer City of Brunswick. Several of them, including Mr. Gould, made very favorable expressions about our harbor. During the inspection of the harbor by the gentlemen, Mrs. General Thomas, the Misses McCall and Gould were taken in charge by Mrs. Judge Crovatt, the Misses Carpenter and Inman by Mrs. C. Downing and Mrs. John McCullough, Miss Spaulding by Mrs. J. S. Thomas, and were all driven around the Boulevard, Hanover and Windsor parks and other points of inter-beautiful scenery about Brunswick.

At 10 o'clock the gentlemen returned, and were met at the Ogiethorpe by the ladies, where lunch was had, and then the party left for Jekyll Island Club, where they fou magnificent spread. Leaving this place at 2 o'clock they left for Jacksonville and St. Augustine. After visiting Tampa they will return to New York in about one week.

ENFORCING THE SUNDAY LAW Makes Some People Think That It Is Too

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 10 .- [Special.]-Savannah has already soured on the enforce ment of the Sunday law by Mayor Mo-Donough. Never before had it been enforced, and the people, consequently, did not know what it really was. Now that they do know, they are clamoring for its modification. The mayor probably realized that such would be the case. He recognized that some of its features would be evidently obnoxious to the people, and acting on General Grant's idea that the best way to have a bad law changed Savannahians generally were satisfied to have yard, and they have raised a howl of disapprobation.

This morning a lot of green grocers were fined. They had not sold anything last Sunday, merely opening their stores to deliver meat that had been sold on Saturday, and which was kept in their ice boxes for customers to prevent the meat's spoiling. The mayor informed them that hereafter people must do without meat on Sunday, or find a way of keeping it at home. The newsdealers were told that as long as the law stood as it now is, people must buy Sunday literature on Saturday, and do without the Saturday's papers from other towns until Monday. The delivery of bread, ice cream and other things muststop.

WHERE WILL IT END?

The only question asked tonight is where will it end? Petitions are being drawn up and will be largely signed, asking for an immediate amendment of the law so that the public will not be entirely deprived of every privilege of the past.

The Morning News has been placed on the information docket for having its place of bus-iness open on Sunday and selling papers. The case will be called in the mayor's court on Friday morning and the result will be awaited with great interest. If the case goes against him there it is hardly probable that Colonel Estill will let it rest.

The Gratitude of a Confederate Soldier to Comrade Who Had Befriended Him-Long Search For His Benefactor.

A PROMINENT PART.

HARTWELL, Ga., Feb. 10.—[Special.]—A story which began during the war has an interesting sequel which has just been made known. Dr. J. A. Mathews, one of Hartwell's most prominent physicians, was a surgeon in the confederate army. One day he chanced to see a private soldier trudging along on a weary march with bare feet and almost destitute of clothing. The sympathy of the surgeon was at once enlisted in behalf of the poor fellow. The surgeon hailed him, and taking the best pair of boots that he had, he generously gave them to the barefooted man, who thanked him with tears in his eyes.

The war clouds finally rolled away. The surgeon and private both survived the gers and hardships of camp and battlefield, each other in different sections of this state The incident above narrated was soon forgotten by the surgeon; but not so by the soldier, whose heart never ceased to beat with love and gratitude for the one who had succored him in need and distress. The years passed on, and although the soldier had made diligent search for the home of the surgeon, and during the many long years ceased not to inquire of friends who visited ortheast Georgia, if they had seen or heard of Dr. Mathews, his whereabouts remained a secret to him.

But after nearly all hope had fled, and the faithful soldier had despaired of ever being able in this life to reciprocate the kindness shown him, only a few months ago he was ac-cidentally put upon a track that led to the discovery of the home of the old army surgeon. A correspondence was begun at once between the soldier and surgeon. Years were crowded into moments, and the happy incident of a quarter of a century ago was made And now Dr. Mathews can be seen any day on the streets of Hartwell, his feet encased in a perfectly-fitting pair of fine French calf boots, recently received from the soldier who had never forgotten his act of kindness in the days that tried men's hearts, as well as souls. The barefoot soldier is now one of wealthiest planters of southwest Georgia.

This Dreaded Disease Makes Its Appears

This Dreaded Disease Makes Its Appearance Again.

La Grippe is with us again, and this dreadful disease has already taken a firm grip on many of our people. The after effects of "La Grippe" are more to be dreaded than the disease itself. Generally it makes place for pneumonia and leaves the patient, if he recovers at all, in a very feeble condition, from which many have not rallied long after the last attack of our Russian enemy, "La Grippe," had left us. Sir Morell Mackenzie highly recommends the Soden Mineral Pastilles as being the most effectual remedy for the prevention and cure of all catarrhal inflammations (of which La Grippe is the most aggravated type) for Sore the most time to the most agravated type) for Sore Throat, Coughs, Bronchitis, and imp troubles. Whenever you enter from a heated room into the open air during the winter, put one of these pastilles (troches) into the mouth and you will surely prevent any attack of Grippe, Catarrh or Cold. Whenever you suffer from a cold in the head or catarrh of any form, do not trifle with yourself but use them at once.

The genuine Soden Mineral Pastilles must have the testimonial and signature of Sir Morell Machatilles.

I am prepared to treat Catarrh and Lucorrhoes and all female diseases by the use of "Squre Remedies," and guarantee a cure in all cases undertaken. Private parior for ladies. The use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. One bottle may not cure "right off" a complaint of years; persist until a cure is effected. As a general rule, improvement follows shortly after beginning the use of this medicine. With many people, the effect is immediately noticeable; but some constitutions are less susceptible to medicinal influences than others and the curative process way there. susceptible to medicinal influences than others, and the curative process may, therefore, in such cases, be less prompt. "For several years, in the spring months, I used to be troubled with a drowsy, tired feeling, and a dull pain in the small of my back, so bad, at times, as to prevent my being able to walk, the least sudden motion causing me severe distress. Frequently, boils and rashes would break out on various parts of the body. By the advice of friends and my family physician, I began the use of Ayor's Sarsaparilla and continued it till the poison in my blood was thoroughly eradicated."—L. W. English, Montgomery City, Mo.

"For years I suffered from scrofula and blood diseases. The doctors' prescriptions and several so-called blood-purifiers being of no avail, I was at last advised by a friend to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. AMONG THE RAILROADS.

SOMETHING OF A FREIGHT BLOCK-ADE IN THE RAILBOAD YABDS.

tip Concerning Western and Atlantic Changes—Other Railroad News of General Interest.

Something must be done to raise the freight blockade which at present exists in the local yards of the railroads The Western and Atlantic road is in probably the worst shape. There are on the tracks of that road in and around the city 325 cars all loaded with freight consigned to merchants in this city. One hundred of these cars are on what are known as the wagon tracks and are easy of access to teams. The other 225 are out on the fair ground tracks and will have to be switched in as fast as room for them can be made on the wagon tracks.

These cars have been in the city all the way from five to twenty days. The long-continued rainy weather is, in a great degree, responsible for this state of affairs, and the officers of the road think that four or five more such days as yesterday will witness the clearing up of the tracks. The merchants to whom this freight is consigned are asked to lend their energies in clearing up the blockade, and it will be to their own interests to do so and prevent the delay on incoming consignments. In fact, the commercial interests of the city depend, in a great measure, upon the raising of the blockade. The Central freight officers say that they have been crowded for some time, owing to the scarcity of side-tracks, but that they are not blocked, and are handling all the freight that is being given them.

The East Tennessee, Richmond and Danville and the Atlanta and West Point roads are not at all embarrassed by the blockade, and apprehend no difficulty unless the crowded condition of the other roads prevent the transferring of through freight.

The Chattanooga trains, Nos. 11 and 12, on the Western and Atlantic, will be discontinued on and after Sunday. They are now, and have been heretofore, running on the following schedule: No. 11 leaves Atlanta 11:10 o'clock p. m.; arrives Chattanooga 4:40 o'clock a. m. No. 12 leaves Chattanooga 8:30 o'clock p. m.; arrives Atlanta 1:45 o'clock a. m.

There are two prime reasons given for the bolishment of these trains. In the first place, they are both night trains and poorly patronized and the present volume of passen-ger traffic between here and Chattanooga can, t is thought, be taken care of without them. Again, their discontinuance will permit of more attention to the freight department, which, at present, is badly crowded. Commencing Sunday, four new freight schedules will be put on, two out of Atlanta and two from Chattanooga. the passenger traffic will still be well taken Over $35,000 worth of steel rails have been laid at this end of the Western and Atlantic in the past month, the improved portion ex-tending ten miles north from the 3-mile post.

There is nothing temporary about Major McCullum's appointment as president of the Western and Atlantic road, Chattanooga papers to the contrary notwithstanding. He is a permanent fixture in the position, and certainly, judging from his fine record with the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis in the past, no better man could have been selected for the President Thomas, of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road, arrived in the city yesterday, but has not as yet made any appointment to fill the vacancy caused by Captain Wylie's resignation as master of trains. In the meanwhile, Mr. A. B. Bostick, assistant superintendent, is temporarily filling

It looks as though there ought to be an official inspector of railroads, in view of the fact that inspector of railroads, in view of the fact that there are so many serious accidents in Georgia of late, says The LaGrange Graphic. The people need protection in this matter. A LaGrange gentleman, while waitingfor a train at a station on the Savannah, Griffin and North Alabama railroad a few days ago, took a stroll along the track and was horrified to find so many rotten ties. He says he could find any number of spikes that he could pull from the ties with his fingers.

Bonds for the building of the Paducah, Tennessee and Alabama railroad from Paris, Tenn., to Sheffield, Ala., have been placed and preparations are now being made to push the road through as rapidly as possible, says The Birmingham News.

The road is practically finished from Paducah, Ky., to Paris, Tenn., a distance of about 100 miles.

Ky., to Paris, Tenn., a distance of about 100 miles. The survey has been made from Paris, Tenn., to Sheffield, Ala., a distance of about 150 miles, and this will now be put under contract.

The ultimate dest mation of the road is Birmingham. After it is finished from Paducah to Sheffield, it will be built from Sheffield direct to Birmingham, over 100 miles, penetrating a section of country rich in minerals.

It is stated that the Paduch, Tennessee and Ala-

It is stated that the Paduch, Tennessee and Alabama railroad is backed up by the Illinois Central. This road has long been scheming for an entrance into Birmingham and the mineral regions of Alabama. It is now quietly but surely building a line in this direction. There is ample capital behind the enterprise and it will be pushed through as rapidly a, possible.

The bonds were easily placed, three parties in the north taking the entire lot.

The jurisdiction of Mr. A. N. Sloan, general freight and passenger agent of the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus road, has been extended to Carrollton. Ga. This gives the gentleman sixty additional miles of territory, making 200 miles in all. Through Mr. Sloan's efforts a new service of through passenger trains has already been put on from Chattanooga to Griffin, commencing Sunday the 8th. This will open up another new Florida line, giving direct connection at Griffin with the Central railroad for south Georgia and Florida points.

A gentleman from Augusta said yesterday:
"Augusta is becoming quite a railroad city. Four important lines are now being built into that city as rapidly as possible, and when they once get in and are in operation the Electric City will take unto herself a jump upward, aside of which the famous Kansas City boom of a few years ago will sink into insignificance. These four roads are the Fort Payne and Eastern, the Augusta and West Florida, the Three C's and the Atlantic Coast Line."

OVIDE MUSIN'S CONCERT TONIGHT.

This fine entertainment will be presented tonight, and the opera house will doubtless be crowded. This is really a treat that none ought to miss. The company appeared in Jacksonville, Fla., last Thursday, and The Times-Union, after describing the brilliant audience assembled to welcome Musin, said:

Musin, said:

"A pianist's position with a concert company is not always an enviable one. He has generally to do all the hard work, and gets the least credit for it. Mr. Scharf's work throughout was painstaking and artistic.

"Mr. Storr's voice is rich and melodious. He interprets the sentiment of his songs so perfectly that he at once puts his audience in sympathy with him. His articulation is clear, and his voice, already strong, gives promise of great power, for he is young and just making a reputation on this his first bour of America.

"Miss Tanner is like the nightingale in one respect surely. She sings naturally and easily, without any apparent effort. She adds to a really wonderful voice the charm of bewitching manners, and her notes rippled along merrily through the most difficult and distracting trills and never faltered in their sweetness in all the most complicated measures. In response to her first number she sang a little German love song—short but very sweet.

"The andience was charmed with Miss Parma."

sne sang a mette terrament with Miss Parma-very sweet.

"The audience was charmed with Miss Parma-ter's voice and with Miss Parmater as well. She has a fine stage presence. Her voice is clear as bell and shows a high degree of cultivation. Her execution is excellent and phrasing nearly perfect.

"Of Musin, very little can be said. It is his violin that talks. The audience went wild over his first performance, and, of course, recalled him. There is nothing musical in a "fiddle-string" which he cannot bring out. He glides over an apparently technical impossibility with the ease of a master. After his second number he responded with Paganni's famous variations on the "Carnival of Venice," and at the second recall with 'Way Down Upon the S'wanee River." Roland Reed.

Roland Reed at the opera house Friday and Saturday night is sure to call out full houses. Of Mr. Reed's new play, "Lend Me Your Wife," an exchange says: "Roland Reed is a versatile actor. This was demonstrated last night in his presents. This was demonstrated last night in his presenta-tion of 'Lend Me Your Wife.' He was perfect in tion of 'Lend Me Your Wife.' He was perfect in the delineation of the eccentric character, Captain. Tarbox. There was a large andience and it was completely in the power of the comical captain. At times, a gesture, a move of the eyes, or a careless attitude, all so expressive, would convulse the people with merriment. There was one great fault with the play. It was a constant strain on the physical strength of those present. They laughed and laughed until they were tired. The plot is a complicated one, and gives rise to many embarrassing and mirth provoking situations. Captain Tarbox has a nephew who pretends to have married to keep a hold on his allowance. Then follows the pretended birth of a son and heir to increase the allowance. All was smooth sailing until the captain suddenly resolves to visit his nephew. Then the trouble commences. The bachelor nephew borrows the wife of his friend for the occasion. The parts were well sustained."

"It leads them all," is the general reply of druggists when asked about the merit or sale of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

.If every lamp in the United States had a "pearl-top" chimney, the breaking of chimneys would almost cease.

There would still be carelessness, accidents. But, if every lamp had a "pearl-top" chimney, the change would be so great that the sale of other sorts would instantly stop. Macbeth & Co., Pittsburgh, might possibly make enough "pearl-tops" to keep the country supplied.

The Party Before Individuals. The Sparta Ishmaelite gives clearness to: very important matter when it remarks in a ecent issue that neither Cleveland nor Hill his worthy of a moment's thought in connection with future party leadership unless he be found to be in absolute accord with the democratic masses in their demand for governmental reform in every direction in which reform is a matter of necessity to the public good." In other words, The Ishmael-ite is of the opinion that the interests of the democratic party are of vastly more consequence than either of these gantlemen, dis-inguished as they are. This is undoubtedly the true democratic way of dealing with the real or supposed rivalry that is said to exist between Cleveland and Hill and some of their friends. The democratic party is bigger and more important than any man or clique that ever existed, and its success is more important than the personal interests of any set of men, for on that success depends the continued safety of our institutions and the welfare of the peo-

The men who serve the democratic party in office or in the ranks are under infinitely more obligations to the party than the party Is to them. As a matter of fact, it is under obligations to no man.

THE CONSTITUTION'S platform fits every exigency that can be conjured up between now and the day that the party will make formal and official utterance. We reproduce It here as containing the essence of demo

Reducing the Cotton Crop.

Those were very interesting resolutions which we printed yesterday from Alliance 732 of Lee county. At the last meeting of the members of this alliance they took into consideration the question of the price cotton and the causes thereof. is to be observed that these alliancemen are disposed to take the sninners and the hears at their word and justify their predictions in regard to a short crop-if not this year, then next year and thereafter until the world gets tired of predictions about overproduction that do not

We remember very well the plight of the northern spinners last year who were foolish enough to believe in their own predictions of overproduction. The close of the year found them short of stock, and some of them were compelled to make purchases in rpool in order to cover their orders. The prices they had to pay ought to have convinced them of the folly of depending on the results of overproduction of the staple

The alliancemen of Lee county propose to make an effort to give the spinners and speculators no room for grumbling about large cotton crops. They have passed a lution requesting the president of the state alliance to ask the presidents of state alliances in all the cotton-growing states to meet either in person, or through delegates appointed by them, at such places signate in the near future for the purpose of securing unity of action, to the end that the production of cotton in the southern states shall be curtailed and other crops proportionately increased.

This would certainly solve the problem of low prices for cotton. It would do more than this-it would enable the farmers to become practically independent in the direction of raising their own supplies. They would get higher prices for the short crop of But when A comes from Florida or Tennes see, and buys $25,000 worth of property cotton, and, in addition, be independent of the western producers of grain and meat. from B there is just that much more mone

Yet it is very difficult to bring such a state of affairs about. The experiment was made by the Patrons of Husbandry when that order was at the height of its popularity. The state grangers met and decided on the policy, and it was ratified almost unani mously; but when the pinch came at planting time, the programme was ignored. Each planter said to himself that, as all his neighbors were going to reduce the cotton screage, it would be a good time to increase Dr. Holmes tells a story which illus trates the result. It was decided that on a certain day and at a certain hour everybody in the world should set up a tremendou yell. It was supposed by the philosophers that the noise made would be appalling in its magnitude, and everybody wanted to The result was that at the appointed hour the world was never so still before, everybody waiting to hear the fuss that everybody else was expected to make. Nobody said a word except an old woman in the Fijee Islands, who was deaf. The result of the grange programme was an enormous crop of cotton

Yet it must be said for the alliance that it to a more active, vigorous and business-like body than the grange was. It is composed of the same element, but the farmers learned a great deal more during the last fifteen years, and their carnestness shows in the work of the alliance. There is no reason why such a programme as the reduction of the cotton crop should not be carried out, just as there is no reason why the farmers, under the lead of the alliance, should not raise their own plantation supplies and their own makes at he the low price of cotton is not brought about by the statements of speculators and spinners, but by the accumulation of the staple at the cotton centers. This accumulation has been caused by the lack of the necessary funds to move the crop. All the evils of taxation and finance fall on the farmers in the end, and, in the low price of cotton, based on the accumulation of stocks at the cotton centers, we see the result of the recent stringency in the money market. In one city, Memphis, $8,000,000 worth of cotton was reported stored the other day.

If the present crop had moved forward, as t would have done ordinarily, the speculators and spinners would not be predicting an immense crop.

Millionaires and the People.

The writer of the financial column in The New York Sun sees no danger to the republic in the growth of great fortunes.

There is nothing in the situation, says this writer, to cause any anxiety on the part of the people, but there is much that is calculated to worry our rich men. We have overestimated the evils of corruption and bribery in public affairs, so far as our wealthy men are concerned. The truth is, our millionaires take very little interest in politics, and herein lies the weakness of their position. In the old Italian republics it was different. The rich men were the rulers of the state. They directed politics as well as commerce. In ancient Rome, the millionaires who bribed their way into power did not make much by it. Crassus [bought the proconsulship of Syria, but he was ruined because he lacked the ability to administer it. Didius Julianus purchased from the praetorian guards the post of emperor, but in sixty-six days he was defeated and beheaded by Severus. It is true that the wealthy English aristo crats rule Great Britain, but it is their statesmanship, and not their money, that does it. On the other hand, the rich French nobles, having given themselves up to idle lives, have no political influence.

The Sun's financial editor thinks that if our American millionaires ever become dangerous in politics, they will have to exhibit more talent in that line than they have heretofore shown. It is significant, too, that the owners of great fortunes have as much as they can do in defending themselves. The hostility exhibited by certain legislatures against railroad companies and trusts, the clamor for an income tax, and the demand of the people for a reform in our financial system, makel it apparent that in future men will find it harder to keep their wealth than to get it. Then, it must be recollected that death and division by inheritance will constantly cut down great for tunes, and frequently millions will fall into the hands of spendthrifts who will squan-

With the people banded against them our millionaires will have but little political influence. Barred out from politics in future, they will spend their money in establishing great industries and giving employment to the masses. Even if they lavish their incomes on fine houses, banquets and works of art, they will furnish work for many, and their money will find its way into general circulation.

This hopeful view is in the main correct. but there will be occasions when combinations of wealthy men will be dangerous to the business interests of the country, and these combinations will make themselves felt in politics. The fact that these evils are exceptional is no reason why they should not be guarded against. We do not want even a temporary plutocracy, and the friends of the republic the representatives of the masses, will find that eternal vigilance will be necessary to prevent the undue growth of the influence and power of the classes. The people must never forget that this country and their government—the heritage of the many, and not of the few.

Money in Atlanta Dirt. Undoubtedly, there is money in Atlanta real estate-money in buying it and holding it. This is no new discovery. For fifty years t has been a well-known fact. Nobody now pretends to set bounds to our progress. The old idea that great cities must be on rivers or by the sea is exploded. The progress of cheap transit, with the future possibilities of electricity as a motor, will make it just as easy to build up large inland cities as it wa in the past to build them on the water. So Atlanta goes forward, Naturally, there is all the time a brisk traffic in our real estate, and individuals make money out of it. This, however, is not exactly what is needed for the benefit of the city at large. When A buys of B, and B of C, and C of A all being residents of Atlanta, it is trading in a circle, and there is no more money in circulation than there was before the deal put in circulation here. We do not need and do not desire specu lation or a boom, but our Chamber of Com merce and our real estate agents will be doing a good work if through the medium o pamphlets and circulars they will keep th solid advantages of Atlanta constantly before the public. They have already accomplished much in this line, but it will pay to increase their efforts. The truth of the business is that we are just entering upon an era of development in this Piedmont region that will bring outsiders with their capital to Atlanta with a rush. All that we have to do is to open our gates and not hide our light under a bushel.

Worthily Bestowed. The banquet tendered Judge Marshall J Clarke by the Atlanta bar was an hono worthily bestowed. There is no man on the bench of Georgia who stands higher than Judge Marshall Clarke, or who is more universally respected and admired by the members of the profes ion of which he is an honored member.

If any evidence of this were necessary it was furnished by the testimonia panquet last evening. The lawyers of Atlanta took this method of testifying their appreciation of the great worth of the man who, without fear or favor, measures out instice to their clients; and that this should have come without any especial oc-casion calling for it, makes it all the more a

Dr. J. G. Armstrong's lecture, at the openouse, tomorrow night, under the auspices the Young Men's Library Association, will doubtless draw a large audience of our most cultured people.

The lecturer's theme is "Richard the Third." His recitations from that stirring tragedy are characterized by a degree of dramatic power rarely witnessed. But the entertainment is something more than a series of dramatic reciations. The doctor is a profound Shakespearian scholar, and his lecture throws a floor of light upon the character of Richard and the nature of his environment.

On a recent northern tour this lecture was enthusiastically received, and the newspapers spoke in the highest terms of the lectu ability. The truth is. Dr. Armstrong is one of the finest elocutionists in the country, and hi dramatic talent and scholarship make him one of the best equipped lecturers ever seen or the stage. The Lewis Monument. At the present session of the State Agricul-tural Society in Savannah the members will have their attention called to the mon proposed to be erected to Hon. David W. Lewis at Dahlonega.

It is the earnest desire of the students of the North Georgia Agricultural College to raise this monument as a tribute to their friend and teacher, and Colonel Lewis was so long and so prominently identified with the State Agricul-tural Society as its president and otherwise that the members will doubtless feel a pride and pleasure in aiding this effort to erect an endurnally deserve such a recognition. TOPICS TALKED ABOUT.

Dr. J. G. Armstrong made some interesting bservations on his recent lecture tour through the north. In talking of the places he visit ne said vesterday:

"The town of Marion, Ind., in which I led tured, is noted chiefly from its being in the center of the great gas-well region of that state. There are four cities, Marion, Kokomo, Anderson and Muncie, each of which claims this palm, l believe an impartial judgment award it to Marion. Over a quarter of a cen-tury ago, I made a short visit to this place. How changed it is since then. Its population then was not over 3.000; now it claims 12 000 And this rapid increase has taken place within the last four years. To natural gas is the rapid growth to be attributed. Its increase however, has been not alone in population. It has become one of the largest manufacturing towns in the state. I was interested chiefly its paper pulp factory, a process that I had before witnessed, and I was in-interested in tracing the operation, step by step, from the peeling of the bark to the issue of the great folds of the pulp, ready to be shipped to he paper mill. This factory is one of the largest of the kind in the country, making, on an average, 40,000 pounds of pulp a day There are not many, I think, who realize this 5 to 90 per cent of all the newspaper magazine paper that is used is made from that pulp. In other words, that such a percentage such paper is made from wood, chiefly from what is known as 'quaking' aspen.

"Do they use gas for fuel in Marion?" "Oh, of course; and to one who h never known any fuel but wood or con it is strange to see hotels and private houses, theaters and churches, heated by this gas. It is very convenient. By the tur of a regulation knob or button, you increase of decrease the temperature of your room at will To be able thus to command a steady tem perature throughout one of these cold nights that section of the country, without havin to get up from time to time to replenish the fire, running the risk of being frozen to the floor on your first step on it, is a blessing to b very highly prized. There are no ashes strewing the furniture and wearing out the arms and patience of the ladies with dusting; no amoke discoloring the walls; no hoarsening or harshening of the voice in repeated calls to Dinah or Bridget to bring mor or less than other fuel?" "Less-considerably so. The cost of feul for a whole year for a residence, say of eight or ten rooms, in Marion is but little more than you or I pay for a single ton of anthracite. Marion is, of course, but an illustration of all owns situated in gas regions. All such ar being rapidly transformed from insignificant cross-roads villages to large manufacturing cities, and wealth rapidly increases."

In speaking of political questions in general some in particular, Dr. Armstrong said: "In my visit to both states I came in con tact with men of a political creed different our own. I felt that I could recognize a rowing disposition to permit us to manage our own race question according to our own the stip of the state of quently heard the remark from such men wish there was not a negro in this city of tion of country,' and this in localities when are was probably not one negro to 500 whites course I retorted in the Hamlet language hat would you do had you but the motiv the cus to passion that we have? Of course, by any other than a professional politician there was but one answer to such a question."

Of his lecture tour Dr. Armstrong said: My experiences in my lecturing wor oughout the places in Ohio and Indiana throughout the places in Ohio and Indiana I visited was very pleasant, very much as it has been in my own state. I found the press invariably kind, and ready always to give me not only fair but generous notices. It is not so easy for a southern man to obtain the ear of a northern audience, especially on the lecture platform. They think, and certainly I could not be a strong refutation of the idea, that the southern press is very partial to its own speakers and lecturers. Therefore, they are disposed to take notices complimentary own speakers and lecturers. Therefor are disposed to take notices complined its own men from the southern press some degree of allowance. Yet I debted and grateful to the of Ohio and Indiana . the or one of the most kindly notices that I have ever received. The fact of the matter is, human nature is much the same north as all are Americans, therefore, there is mong all a high average of fairness and gen erosity.

We may rail against 'the almighty dollar' as we please, but its rule is not all bad. It is after all the great power—certainly one of the great powers—by which the hearts of states are to be brought into close and sympathetic throb with each other. The political demagogue cannot long keep part states whose commercial and keep apart states whose commercial and financial interest it is to be one. There may be grounds for a taunt, but there is a power-fully conserving influence in the yankee's question, 'Will it pay?'''

Dr. Armstrong will lecture at DeGive's for the benefit of the Young Men's Library on Thursday night. Those who have heard his Richard the hird are enthusiastic in their praise of the ure—if "lecture" is the proper term—and a big audience will doubtless greet him.

He may be correct about there being nothing in it—for if we obtain anything it will be more than any of his unnumbered creditors have been able to do within the last fifteen years. He has been pretty skillful in defacting his creditors. I think to do within the last fifteen years. He has been pretty skillful in defeating his creditors. I think it was in brilliant victories of this kind that he won the title of "Colonel." If he succeeds in capturing his salary as president of the Agricultural society and defeating this claim I will fall in line with the others and look for his deserved promotion to General John O. The records will show thing of the kind; or, if they do, they have been tampered with. "Colonel" Waddell says he will go to the bottom of this matter and give the public a statement of it. The "Colonel" will do nothing of the sort. I defy him to do so. He never paid a debt that he could avoid, nor kept a trust that he could betray. Colonel Waddell squandered the estate of my grandfather valued at some $40,000, the heirs getting but a trifle. He confesses he owes them and yet neglects to pay. I defy him to attempt to give the public a statement of his debts and his conduct toward his creditors.

When he attempts it I have some facts that will keep him busy, and laterest the public no little. I wait for the "Colonel" to go to the bottom and explain.

The business men of Atlanta favor recipros

And they formally congratulate the country and especially the south on the recent sur of Mr. Blaine in that line. An enthusiastic meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held at noon yesterday.

President Bullock was in the chair. After stating the object for which the meeting had been called, Colonel A. J. McBride submitted a set of resolutions endorsing the principle of reciprocity. These resolutions were talked over, and with one or two changes in the working were unanimously adopted.

The president and secretary were rec

o forward copies of the resolutions to Mr.

The resolutions as adopted were as follows: Resolved, I. That the Atlanta Chamber of Com-merce heartly endorses reciprocity, and that we congratulate the whole country, and especially

2. That the Atlanta Chamber of Cor lieves that it is the true policy of the Unized States government to enlarge our foreign markets by adopting the principles of reciprocity with Central and South America and Canada.

3. That we believe that the connection of all adoption of a common coinage, would advance the interests of the people of all the Americas an

Mr. Blaine's Experiment.

Among those of our esteemed contemporaries that are accustomed to do their own thinking, we observe a very general disposition to regard the conclusion of Mr. Blaine's reciprocity arrangement with Brazil in a spirit of candid interestant willingness to await results.

That is right. The beginning of this important experiment is a matter of national rather than partisan concern. If the reciprocity scheme works according to the expectations of its able and sagacious promoter, the country well benefit greatly and Mr. Blaine will get more glory, than falls to the lot of most statesmen.

Let the free traders, if they please, reciprocity as a step toward their ideal protectionists view it as the practical application of the doctrine of protection to American indus-try in its purest form. Let republicans chaim it as a republican measure. Let democrats insist that it is a policy forced upon the republican leader n the fifty-first congress in spite of them selves.
Then, if results in the way of profitable com mercial intercourse with our South American sister republic redound to the prosperity of this nation, everybody can be happy, and everybody can join in awarding to the Hon. James G. Blaine the praise due to him for one of the boldest, most independent and individual moves in the history of American statesmanship.

Mr. Jackson's Toast.

Mr. Jackson said, in response:

"Mr. Chairman: Whether in the domain of science or of art; it is the most simple that develops lasting power. The falling apple of Newton gave to the world the law of gravitation; the kite of Franklin, electricity; and the kettle of Watts, the steam engine. The angel of Michael Angelo, which his genius saw in the rough block of marble, and which his art cut therefrom, was simplicity itself. The Madonna of Raphael seems to have been created by the brush of the painter without an effort. How much of severe preparatory work may have pre-Brilliant Affair at the Kimball House Last Night-The Speakers and the Speeches.

A noble occasion! And a notable gathering of brainy men! of Raphael seems to have been created by the brush of the painter without an effort. How much of severe preparatory work may have preceded triumphs which have won immortality, is rarely considered by an admiring, grateful public. It is the unostentations—the simple—that addresses the universal thought and the universal heart.

"As retrospection carries me back twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I see before me a young man just commencing that most arduous of struggles, a career at the bar. The contrast between the breadth of his attainments and the simplicity of his manners produced a marked antithesis. His native intellect, which enabled him easily to plack collegiate honors, pointed steadily to high professional advancement. His modesty of demeanor, his purity of heart, his power of expression, his decision of character, and his constitutional calmness, demonstrated that he would ornament the bench. Continuous and severe study had cultivated his powers to the last degree, and enabled him to grasp and master the difficult problems of the law, with the ease with which steam and electricity traverse space. Clearness of thought, resulted in simplicity of expression in conveying conclusions to court, bar or jury. Twenty-live years of intimate acquaintance with this gentleman, embracing that period of life which extends from youth to middle age, enables me confidently to assert, that at all times and in all places, he has been the very best type this state could produce, of the simple, modest, graceful gentleman, but always carring within a reserved strength which only his intimate friends fully appreciated. A gentleman in social life, a gentleman at the bar, and now, thanks to the wisdom of the general assembly of Georgia, on the unanimous request of this bar, a gentleman upon the bench! Of course, I allude to our valued friend, our distinguished guest, Marshall J. Clarke. [Great applianse] The splendid banquet testimonial, by the mbers of the Atlanta bar to the upright haracter the judgment and the great worth Judge Marshall J. Clarke, at the Kimhall house, last night, will be long rememhered by those who shared in the festivities of the evening.

The handsome breakfast room of the hotel was the scene of the "feast of reason and flow of soul." The tables were three in number arranged in rectangular form. The decorations were superb. Through the center of each table trailed a bed of heavy moss, over which choice roses of varied colors thickly sprinkled. Opposite each guest was bouquet of flowers,

JUDGE MARSHALL J. CLARKE. while in every button hole reposed a boutonniere. Candelabra stood at short inervening spaces on the tables, and were interspersed with beautiful floral pieces, while at the head of the table, where sat the honored guest of the ovening, was a magnificent grangement of flowers three tiers in height The menu was an elaborate one, and ample justice was paid to that popular individual, the chef de cuisine. And were they not a merry lot? The stories told in their best vein by these law expounders, to the clinking of glasses; the sallies of wit and repartee, and the responsive laughter, made the occasion one of the keenest enjoyment.

And then the speeches! The profession of the law, above all others, develops not only the orator and the word painter, but the post-prandial speaker. And that fact) more truly

"Gentlemen of the Atlanta bar, let us strive with the same earnestness for excellence as the learned judge who presides in our principal court. Wellburn, and Judges Kiddoo and Perkins, the last two both of the Pataula bench. Seaborn Jones and Henry L. Benning were, also, familiar figures to the eyes of my boyhood; the former one of the most eminent practitioners of his time, and the latter of whom subsequently added to his honors as lawyer and judge the bolder luster of martial fame. I saw the famed Walter T. Colquitt in, perhaps, his last effort in the courtroom. Old age had touched him with its infirmities, but there still smouthered in his dark gree yees the fires which, in earlier days, had flamed out so brilliantly and with such magic power, and the words that fell from his lips suggested the orator then inmatched in the forum and on the hustings. Occasionally the kingly Toombs dazzled the village with his presence.

"The lawyers named came chiefly from Columbus. That city was, indeed, the Rome to the modest Mantua where we dwelt. These prominent men were constantly before me as prototypes. When as a boy I sat in a company of them, it was in silent wonder, and I felt probably the same degree of reverence that a Jewish lad of the olden time would have had in the presence of the Sanhedrim. "When school and college days had ended, I found my older and only brother fortunately set the direct the continuous bar in a partnership with an uncle who had some years before less the circuit bench. At my home burse he would have had in the presence of the Sanhedrim would have had in the presence of the Sanhedrim would have had in the presence of the Sanhedrim would have had in the presence of the sanhedrim had been presented the best talents, professional attainments of the form many places and true men, bound together in brotherhood of kindness.

"Mr. Gazaway Hartridge, several years since, began an address in Ailanta somewhat in this wise: 'I am happy to appear in a city which has gathered to itself a large share of the virtue, intelligence and wealth of this stale and all its public offices have been held in Atlanta. Have you observed to what extent this bar has shared these distinctions? For a quarter of a century members of it have filled the state, circuit and other benches in which it was interested. The United States government has here supplied its Georgia judiciary. Beginning with the erudits and venerable Erskune, we have had McCay, and wenerable Erskune, we have had McCay, speer and Newman. For some fitzen years, consecutively, two of our fraternity sat in the house of representatives at Washington. Two have gone from among us to the United States senate. Brown and Hill—the former the wiest Georgian new Mylor.

"We have given to Georgia three chief justices

—Brown and Lochrane and Bleckley. The last, the illustrious Bleckley, is all our own. As he sits, the honored head of the judiciary of the state, he sheds a special radiance on the Atlanta state, he sheds a special radiance on the Atlanta bar.

"To preside as judge of this circuit, over such a bar with its sanction, is to enjoy a proud distinction. 'Gloria est consentiens laus bouorum.' "And now, gentlemen, standing at this board, the white folds of the flag of truce peacefully floating above our cares, the festal cup brimmed, qvery nature expanded and softened with kindness, I greet you with all the warmth of my emotions, as friends and brethren, and from my heart of hearts tender you sincerest thanks for this distinguished honor."

The Governor. Concerning the second toast, the chairman spoke as follows:

"The governor of our state, who appoints the judges, who approves the laws, and who, by our constitution, shall take care that the laws are carefully executed, and shall be a conservator of the peace throughout the state. We know that all these high duties, will be well done by His Excellency, W. J. Northen."

In his absence from the city, the following letter from Governor Northen was read:

ATLANTA, Ga., February 9, 1891.—Hon. Marshall J. Clarke, City.—My Dear Judge: I greatly regret that my absence from the city will prevent me from accepting the invitation to the banquet given in your honor.

The compliment paid you in this action by the bar is a high distinction which you have worthily woo. It is understood to be the testimony of competent witnesses, commending your eminent ability, your firmness and your absolute justice in the administration of law.

When all our course maintain without partiality spoke as follows:

when all our courts maintain without partiality the authority of the law, the citizen will be safe with his property, his liberty and his life.

I congratulate you most heartily upon the honors you have deserved, and regret that I will not be able, personally, to bear you the tribute I would most cordially render. Truly, your friend, W. J. NOETHEN.

JUDGE SAM LUMPKIN.

"ATLANTA, February 10.—Hon. N. J. Hammond, and Others, Committee--Gentlemen: I acknowledge, with pleasure, the receipt of your courteous invitation to the banquet this evening, complimentary to Hon Marshall J. Clarke. My high esteem for him personally, and great admiration and respect for him as a jurist would make it exceedingly pleasant to me to participate in doing him, on this occasion, the honor he so well deserves. Besides, I would also be very glad, indeed, to meet socially around the festive board my cerely regret that an important engagement, which requires my leaving the city this afternoon, will make it impossible for me to be present.

Hoping the banquet may be, in all respects, a success, as I feel assured it will be, I remain, very truly yours,

SANUEL LUMPKIN."

very truly yours,

FROM SENATOR BROWN.

Hon. N. J. Hammond, Chairman: I have to ackwoledge the kind invitation extended to me by your committee to attend the banquet given by the bar of Atlanta in honor of that distinguised jurist, Hon. Marshall J. Clarke.

No one has a higher appreciation of his personal and official character than I do, and I would delight to unite with the bar of Atlanta to do him honor; but ill-health prevents my acceptance of your kind invitation. Very respectfully.

JOSEPH E. BROWN.

zines of the country until, at length, even the conservative North American Review has come to the defense of the bar. Let us here, by our professional purity, render all such criticisms as absurd as they are contemptible! The life of the lawyer is most arduous. To achieve success he must live like a hermit and work like a horse. Only a very few can be elevated to judicial station, and hence, as the coral insect, they labor in their tomb until they are entombed in their labor. (Applause.) "But the example of our distinguished guest imperatively demands that I be consise. He is himself a perfect illustration of what Macaulay wrote of the great lord justice and lord high chancellor Somers, when referring to his defense of the Bishops: "Somers rose last. He spoke little more than five minutes; but every word was full of weighty matter; and when he sat down his reputation as a constitutional lawyer was established."

"It has been beautifully said that law has her seat in the bosom of God—her voice is the har-ATLANTA, Ga., February 9.—Hon. N. J. Hammond, chairman, etc.: Dear Sir—I received the postal of the committee that the banquet of the Atlanta bar to Judge Marshall J. Clarke will occur at the Kimball house tomorrow night. I deeply regret my inability to attend, as I have been quite indisposed for several days, and fear to go out at night. Please allow me to propose through you the following sentiment:
Judge Marshall J. Clarke, an able, faithful, impartial and incorruptible judge, he has won the admiration of the bar and the confidence of the people. Very truly yours, L. J. GABTRELL.

The Supreme Court. FROM GENERAL GARTRELL. "It has been beautifully said that law has her seat in the bosoni of God—her voice is the harmony of the world—and under the inspiration of this noble sentiment, I have the honor to propose that we, standing, drink the health of one of her best oracles, Hon. Marshall J. Clarke, judge of the Atlanta circuit. "An upright judge has more regard tojjustice than to men." [Continued appliance.]

In announcing the third toast, Colonel Ham-

In announcing the third toast, Colonel Hammond read:

Here's to a witty judge. In a man's life, so in his studies. I think it the most beautiful and human thing in the world so to mingle gravity with pleasantry that the one may not sink into melancholy not the other rise up in wantonness. (Translated from Pliny's Epistle.)

Third toast: "It deserves and fills the high place assigned it by the law as final arbiter over the property, the liberties and the lives of the people."

over the property, the liberties and the fives of the people."

The response of Chief Justice Logan E. Bleckley was the gem of the evening: Beckley was the gem of the evening: General state of the five state of the court, for it has been in existence forty-five years, and spoken through eighty-four volumes of law books, and if it hasn't been sufficiently heard yet, I don't think the court could be assisted any by a banquet speech. [Applause.] With regard to my relation towards that court. I am not in myself a full court. [Laughter]. In that respect I differ from the honored guest of this evening. [Laughter.] I liken him unto a widow who has a separate estate in her own right. [Continued laughter.] I've often wondered how a man feels when he is a full court. [Laughter.] The hardest job I ever had is being a third of a court [laughter] and how any man could be a full court was always a mystery to me. But I want to say this—if any man ever was a full court that man is Marshall J. Clarke. [Prolonged applause.]

"His (Judge Clarke's) judicial grammar is sound,
"His (Judge Clarke's) he is somewhat defective. "His Judge Clarke's) indicial grammar is sound, but as an abstract noun he is somewhat defective. No one questions his gender [laughter], but there are objections to his number and case. He ought to be in the plural number and possessive case, [laughter and applause], where he is in the singular number and is-rather a hard case." [Continued laughter.]

Judge Bleckley's was universally pronounced one offthe finest after-dinner speeches ever made in Atlants.

The Federal Judiciary Fourth toast—"The Federal Judiciary."
What our state judiciary is to this commonwealth, that is to the union. The character of its judges fits them to administer "the supreme law" of the general government.
"Of course," said Judge Newman, "after what you have just heard I shan't attempt to make a speech.

you have just heard I shan't attempt to make a speech.

"While I knew all along that I could not make a speech, and yet would be expected to say something, I felt that I would not be doing right unless I was here. Like Captain Jackson, I can say that I have known Marshall Clarke for a quarter of a century, and the more I see and learn of him the higher I esteem him. [Applause.] I have been a federal judge almost as long as he has been a state judge, both holding court in Atlanta, and between tus there has never been hitch or conflict. Speaking for the federal court, I can see no reason why there should ever be a conflict. [Applause.]

"I would be glad if a selection had been made that could better express in words the sentiment I feel in my heart. No tribute to Judge Clarke—and I find comfort in the thought—could be sincerer than my own."

The True Lawyer.

Fifth toast-"The True Lawyer." In the language of Sir Roger Lestrange, he is "the the delight of the court, the ornament of the bar, the glory of his profession, the terror of deceit and the oracle of his country." In his relation to society, he personifies Sir Philip Stoney's ideal of "High erected thought, seated in the heart of courtesy."

Judge John L. Hopkins responded as follows:

seated in the heart of courtesy."

Judge John L. Hopkins responded as follows:

"The foundation stone of society is law. Laws are useless if there be no means of enforcing them. So that the creation of an office for that purpose is just as essential as is the law itself. Then, it is true that, in government, all interests center in the judiciary.

"Obviously, no man can intelligently exercise the functions of the judiciary without a knowledge of the law. Judges are made out of lawyers, and can be made no other way. The lawyer is the bud, and the judge is the open flower. The sum of it all is this: Society cannot exist without the judge, there can be no judge without lawyers, and therefore no society without the lawyer. What the keystone is to the arch, he is to society. If lawyers were withdrawn and no one left, the law itself would pass away, might would make right.

"In all history, I recall but one incident that may be used in denial of the statement that it takes a lawyer to make a judge, and that is in the ase of solomon. Two women had a lawsuit about a child. Testimony was conflicting, and he not knowing how to decide it, and in order to escape from the dilemma, ordered the child to be cut in two. The decision made him considerable reputation, but it showed he was no lawyer. (Continued laughter.) It violated the commandment "Thou shalt not kill," and every other principle of law. What if our judges should adopt such a rule? Our supreme court would reverse Solomon's decision in two minutes—they would not hear from the other side [Laughter.]

"I regret to say that the chief hostility to lawyers comes from the guileless farmer. This, under all the circunstances, is singularly ungracious in him.

"There was a time when there was no sin in the world. How came it here? It was through Adam.

all the circumstances, is singularly ungracious in him.

"There was a time when there was no sin in the world. How came it here? It was through Adam, and he was the first farmer. (Laughter.) He was specially appointed to till and dress the garden. For a time he had a monopoly of the business," and though I do not wish to revive recollections of an unpleasant occurrence, it is true that, for his misconduct, his business was broken up, and he was ejected from the premises. (Continued laugher.) Should the farmer become see value legion, it would do not have the premises.

line from Adam, whose reputation, certainly, was mone of the best.

"The farmer should also remember that charges of wrong-doing may be very unjust, for his own good name has not always been said that when he puts up his potatoes for market, he invariably places the choicest at the top, and fills the barrel with the worst. Now, when this charge was investigated it was found out that there was a variety of potato which had this peculiarity: pack them as you might, when on the way to market the choicest always worked their way to the top. That discovery vindicated the farmer, and at the same time it made that variety of potato very popular, and it has since been cultivated extensively. [Great laughter.]

"It takes all the legitimate callings to meet the demands of life, and no one of them can fulfill its mission by making war on another. It is only by a hearty, generous co-operation of all interests that happiness and prosperity are to be achieved. Every man owes it to all others to act upon the principle that the world was made for all, that there is room enough, money enough and good name enough, for all." [Applause.]

Not There. To respond to the next toast there were two press representatives selected, Captain E. P. Howell and Mr. Hoke Smith, but both were unavoidably absent.

Mr. Albert Howell, Jr., was called upon to respond in their stead, and did so in response to repeated calls, in a happy and well-timed to repeated calls, in a happy and well-timed talk.

"Like Waiter Brown said about the mountain oysters that came in just now—he couldn't find them on the menu and he wouldn't eat them. [Laughter.]

"I'm not on the programme, and knowing the gameness of all human nature, whether its object be a mountain oyster or a banquet speaker [laughter]. I will give way to the next teast."

Judge Richard H. Clark, who was to respond to the next teast was also providentially pregameness of all human nature, whether its object be a mountain oyster or a banquet speaker llaughter]. I will give way to the next toast."

Judge Richard H.Clark, who was to respond to the next toast, was also providentially prevented from being present.

Judge Howard Van Epps

Eighth Toast. "The court of Atlanta—younger but most hopeful sister to the superior court. Its presiding officer, Judge Van Epps, we greet with 'O, wise and upright judge, now much more elder than thy looks." "Merchant of Venice.

Judge Van Epps, in responding to the toast to which he had been assigned, said:

"It isn't fair. A jury has been hung in the city court all day. During the hanging this hortatory message came. It sounds like the notes of a trumpet. Listen: 'Be ready, to respond to the toast of the city court of Atlanta. I forget whether I said so in my invitation yesterday. N. J. Hammond." "I want to say the city court is composed of a judge, sometimes of a jury, of a sheriff, two bailiffs, General O'Bryan, and Lieutenant-General Couch, but princicipally, as I believe, of the Atlanta bar. I claim he bar here assembled in as absolute a ense as the distinguished gentleman whose honor we colebrate tonight. I have been thinking as I sat here and mused tonight how much respect and even affection I have for the members of the Atlanta bar. It is based on the observed facts of character and not on sentiment.

Judge Van Epps said in the analogies of nature it was not the mighty display of force that showed the power of the divine. It was not in the hurricane, or the tornado, or in Niagara, but in the silent, unobtrusive, almost unobserved parts of His work that His power was displayed. It was as true of the observed facts of character in the courthouse of lawyers as of the divine in the physical world. Small things, the almost trivial things every day displayed in the conduct of the lawyer trumpeted forth character or the want of it.

"One lawyer read before me with great unction an opinion. Isaid: 'Are you not reading a dissenting opin

Only let us strive to be pure and true, And to each of us will come the hear When the tree of life will burst into flower, And cast at our feet the glorious dower Of something grander than ever we knew.'

"It is, sir, the apparently trivial facts of daily life that trumpet forth to the world character or the want of it, and this is so in courts—human, as well as divine.

Other Speakers. Colonel Reuben Arnold, in response to loud and repeated requests, arose and in a few apt remarks testified his regard for Judge Clarke and the profession of the law generally. He said he had seen the honored gentleman placed Upon motion of Colonel Arnold the health of the banquet committee, which had carried out all preliminaries and details in such a splendid, thoughtful and liberal manner, was out an prenminaries and details in such a splendid, thoughtful and liberal manner, was drunk standing.

Mr. Julius Brown, of the committee, was then called upon and answered in a short and appropriate speech, which teemed with eulogiums of Judge Clarke.

Mr. W. T. Moyers, when called upon, said he was too sober to speak.

Mr. W. P. Hill then made a short response to repeated calls.

Mr. W. P. Hill then made a short response to repeated calls.
Mr. J. H. Lumpkin replied in spite of a slight indisposition to the calls upon him, speaking highly of Judge Clarke.
The next speaker was Mr. T. A. Hammond, Jr., whose speech was brief and full of meat.
Hon. W. C. Glenn, when called upon said, that while his connection with the Atlanta bar was but of recent date, he had already noticed their intense devotion to their profess.

bar was but of recent date, he had already no-ticed their intense devotion to their profes-sion. The judge, he said, was largely what the bar made him and vice versa.

Mr. E. W. Martin's speech was brief but in that brief speech he spoke volumes. He said Judge Clarke was kind and considerate to the members of the bar, but especially so to the stranger lawyer who was struggling to ob-tain a foothold in a city where he was new and unknown. and unknown.

With the conclusion of Mr. Martin's speech, with the conclusion of Mr. Martin's speeca, the banquet came to an end.

A Word In Conclusion.

The banquet was in every respect a splendid success, and much of the credit is due to the success, and much of the cream is due we she gentlemen on the committee of arrangements. They were: Hon. N. "I don't know why the paper isn'there," said he. "The claims were drawn up and left in the hands of our attorney. I had no reason to expect they would not be here today."

Colonel N. J. Hammend, president of the commission, could not explain the failure of the lessees to have their claims ready.

"I know of no request having been made," said he, "for an extension of the time, and surely I would know if any arrangement of that sort had been made."

A telegram from Augusta received early this morning quotes Major Cumming as saying that the papers were sent to Colonel Hammond yesterday morning and should have reached him early in the afternoon.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Exchange.

NEW YORK, February 10.—The stock market still maintains an active business in a few stocks, while the rest of the list is kept dull and uninteresting, although the market cannot strictly be called narrow, as the trading from day to day extends to a large number of stocks, showing that the interest in the market is widespread. There is considerable manipulation on the bull side but the chief actor in this is a late bear leader, and the methods pursued were exactly similar. the bull side but the chief actor in this is a late pear leader, and the methods pursued were exactly similar to those which obtained such recognition in the late break in the market. He does not seem able as yet, however, to get any following on the other side, and operators, both large and small, are holding off for, further developments, or until the final adjournment of congress. The news of the day was not of a charac-ter to have much influence upon prices, but what there ter to have much influence upon prices, but what there was of it was rather unfavorable. The reports from Washington that the recent decision of the suprem court changing the method of calculating the net earn ings would result in increasing the payments of the Pacific roads to the government, and having a depressing effect upon the Union Pacific, while the poor proct of the shipping bill getting through adversely at ted Pacific Mail. Industrials were again prominen fected Pacific Mail. Industrials were again prominent for their wide fluctuations, but with the exception of one or two specialties, stocks of the regular list were kept within narrow limits throughout the day. The late strength was again prominent in early trading, but later in the day the bears felt the list and finding no marked support, hammered some of the leading stocks down, wiping out all of the early gains in almost all cases. The rest of the market followed, and the final changes, therefore, are in all but a few cases, for final changes, therefore, are in all but a few cases, for insignificant fractions. Sugar receipts were helped. insignificant fractions. Sugar receipts were helped, but the decision of the governor that transactions in them should cease after March 2d, as so large a proportion of them have now been changed into new stock, but later when the news of the passage of the Erwin resolution to investigate the trust was received the entire advance was wiped out in both stocks. Mobile and Ohio was the only inactive stock showing any material inovement, and after a gain of about 2 per cent closed with most of the gain. The Villards were prominent in the first break from the high figures of the morning, and official denials of the reported of the morning, and official denials of the reported debts, including Chicago and Alton, Susquehanna and ing the market in the afternoon. The decline, how ing the market in the afternoon. The decline, however, was in a few instances for more than the early improvement, and no material change in prices is to be noted for the day, the close being dull and steady. NEW YORK, February 10 .- The steady strength o the market continues in the face of intense dullness and a seeming entire absence of outside interest. There can naturally be but one cause for this and tha is that the big operators, including Mr. Gould and I is that the big operators, including mt. Golind and his following, must be supporting the market and are buying the floating stock.

Unless something should occur to interfere with their plans there is but little doubt but that they will succeed in advancing prices higher and fully control the market until such time as it shall become broad enough for them to be able to realize some of their profits. We therefore think that stocks will be quite safe to hold as long as the market continues as narrow as it is at present and while we are inclined to thin as it is at present and while we are inclined to think that increased activity will lead ito some liquidation it will probably be from a higher range of prices. There was no particular feature to today's trading, the strength being pretty well distributed, even Atchison holding its own in spite of the intense dullness and bearish feeling which pievalis in regard to it. Its strength in face of this bearish feeling encourages us to look for better things for it. Yours truly, CAHN & CO.

NEW YORK, February 10.—[Special.]—Liverpool advices are again poor, though spinners took proportionally more cotton today than they did yesterday. As Tuesday being Manchester market day, the business in Liverpool is usually interrupted by the absence in Manchester of many merchants. Our market opened easy, and declining touched the lowest point of the scason for the summer deliveries when the bursau estimate of the amount left on plantations was received. The weakness in the market had caused some local selling during the morning, and this interest was quick to change position when the estimate of 87 per cent marketed was read, as 84 per cent had been rather looked for earlier in the day. After close examination the report is thought to confirm Messra R. T. Wilson & Co's estimate of 8,100,000 bales, issued in January. This view is reached on the builet that there is more otton in the country this year than last. By Private Wire to Youngblood & Haas. NEW YORK, February 16—Our market was very reak at the opening in sympathy with easy Liverpool and Manchester advices. After the receipt of the bureau report, however, was more active and firmer, the report, while variously construed, being rather less fa-vorable than was expected. It makes the amount of vorable than was expected. It makes the amount of this crop marketed 87 per cent, against 98.4 per cent last year. The estimate, according to the manner in which the report is figured, ranges from 7,900,000 to 8,200,000 bales. We, for our part, are inclined to lay but little importance upon the report, although it may tend to stimulate the Liverpool market and give us a temporary reaction. Lehman Bros.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, February 10—Wheat was dull and in-active. At the start prices declined %c, and then ad-vanced 1%c, closing %c above the price at the corres-ponding time yesterday. The torpidity of the bears in cold weather was replaced by a return of animation, and the table of declaration. oold weather was replaced by a return of animation, and the talk of damage from existing conditions was not sufficient to overcome the feeling of comfort from higher temperature. The market was dull and heavy and prices had a downward tendency, while outside orders were very scarce, and the heavy local pounders kept hitting it with 10,000, 20,000 and 25,000 bushel lots, and light-timbered longs dropping their holdings scatteringly on each 1-16c decline. May wheat sold off to 66% in the course of two hours' trading. News more to the liking of the buils now commenced to come in, and business, which was very light on the decline, became active on the advance which resulted. May delivery advanced with light reactions until 8% was delivery advanced with light reactions until 98%c was finally paid, and 98%c ruled at the close.

Corn—Trading was light and without significance, and at times the crowd in the trading pit was thinned out to the dimensions of a corporal's gnard.

Trade in oats was light and all for local account, the market ruling dull and quiet around and slightly below the closing prices of yesterday.

Trading in provisions was remarkably dull, but prices improved owing to the receipts of home better that mproved owing to the receipts of hogs being mender the estimates made yesterday. For tomor the arrivals expected are 40,000 head. Prices highest early in the session, but the close shows con-siderable advance over yesterday's resting figures, pork gaining 10@125c, lard 25c and ribs 5c. CHICAGO. February 10.—With reports of rain is the important part of the wheat-growing region in California, light increase in the amount in passage, and the very timid manner in which the cold wave made its appearance, caused rather a weak speculative feeling on the opening of our market this morning. Trading was so light and the short sellers so numerous that for a time what had but few friends. This, however, did not last long, as has been the case hereofore when the price touches 97 cents for May there seems that for a time what had but few friends. This, however, did not last long, as has been the case herefofore when the price touches 97 cents for May there seems to spring up a demand for cash wheat, both foreign and domestic, which immediately absorbs all offerings. In New York every bushel of No. 2 red wheat in stock was taken for export. Several lots were taken here both for milling purposes, and for shipment'to New York, the latter presumably for export. Indianapolis, Terre Haute and Detroit also reported good sales of wheat and flour at the highest prices on the crop and millers were free buyers of wheat wherever they could find any suitable for their purposes. English and Continental markets closed decidedly higher and it is reported that the imports into the United Kingdom and larmers deliveries for the past week fall short very materially of the requirements of the consumptive demand where the short sellers at 97 cents expects to get his wheat to fill sales at a profit is beyond our comprehension. Receipts of corn were quite liberal but the market for domestic purposes and in a speculative way was dull and lifeless. Oats continued to attract little or no attention. Although the provision trade was quite dull and attracted little attention during the greater part of the session, yet we have to record rather a firm undertone and we think the outlook decidedly better for holders. Manufacturers are not inclined to force the product on the market and prominent packers are trying to cover their short sales against their large holdings. We would not advise any other short selling at present. MONEY

I AM PREPARED TO NEGOTIATE LOANS on improved property in the city of Atlanta, in amounts of $500 and upward, at reasonable interest rates. Being closely connected with the lender, I am in position to deal with the borrower direct, thereby avoiding the heavy brokerage usually charged. Parties desiring to borrow, and having satisfactory security to offer, can depend upon getting money promptly with light expense, by calling upon me at 13 East Alabama street. fin col D. E. SAYRE.

fled, variously divided among petitions, bills, damages and divorce suits. The clerks were kept pretty busy, but there was not such a rush as last year for the spring

Among the suits filed were those of Emma E. Smith and her father, George B. Smith, against George S. May for $5,000. The claim is that the family rented a house, 141 Mitchell street, occupied by him as an office, and that he removed the back steps and constructed a gangway of plank to the adjoining building, over which to remove his office offects. They warned him to remove it because it was dangerous, but it remained, and Emma, who was nine years old, fell from it to the ground, a distance of fifteen feet, sustaining serious, and it is claimed, permanent injuries.

T. O. Bramlett is suing the Fulton County Street Railway Company for $5,000, because his wagon was overturned in trying to get out of the way of a car last July and he was thrown out and seriously injured.

C. L. & T. J. Delbridge have entered suit against the Western Union Telegraph Company for $296.55, because of the failure to deliver a telegram to one of their traveling salesmen in Florence, S. C., thereby causing them to miss a good sale.

Evan Johnson has entered suit for $25,000, because of damages sustained in an accident on the Richmond and Panville railroad.

The city of Atlanta has entered suit against G. W. McDuffle. M. R. Richardson and Theo Fiesh for the recovery of $959.76 because of failure of John T. Samples, contractor, to carry out the contract of building No. 5 engine house. The first three named are his bonds. The first three named are his b twenty-two. TWO DRAWN BATTLES.

The Chess Champions Play Two Excellent Games—Another Sitting Today. Yesterday morning Mr. I. E. Orchard and Professor A. F. Wurm. the chess champions, began their third sitting on the eighth game, and the spec-tators felt confident that it would be drawn. Mr. Orchard succeeded in winning a pawn, but his adversary's position was so strong, owing to the bearing of his bishop, that it did not seem pos-the bearing of his bishop, that it did not seem pos-lible to force the game.

After an hour's hard play on both sides a draw After an hour's hard play on both sides a draw mas agreed upon.

The ninth game proved the most brilliant of the series. It was professor Wurm's turn to open the man, and he for the third time in the present match adopted the "Ruy Lopez." Mr. Orchard again tried the efficiency of the "Steinitz defense." Early in the game a novel and brilliant idea was introduced by Professor Wurm. He sacrificed a bishop and then instituted a vehement assault against the adverse king. The position was intricate, and Mr. Orchard began to repent having captured the proffered bishop, for it seems as if his antagonist's attack could not be resisted; but, by exceedingly careful manceuvering, Mr. Orchard escaped with a perfectly even position. The game was reduced to a pawn ending, four pawns on each side. It was essentially a drawn position in its nature, and the onlookers expected it to be so decided at once. Professor Wurm is a superb pawn player, and he managed his game with consummate skill. Mr. Orchard, at a critical juncture, for a moment relaxed his vigilance, and layed himself open to what is technically called the "opposition." Fortunately for him Professor Wurm did not see the point, and thus lost his only chance of winning. After a long and stabborn struggle the game was drawn.

The score now stands: Orchard, four games; Wurm, three games, and two draws.

The tenth game of the match will be played this merning, at 11 o'clock.

Boils and Carbuncles Boils and Carbuncies.

It seems strange that any one will suffer with boils, carbuncies, etc., when Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla will certainly prevent all such truptive tendencies. It is a sure and safe antidote for blood poison arising from whatever source, and its use when needed should not be unnecessarily delayed. Thousands who found attensively advertised blood medicines to have reafficient whatever are rejoicing in the fact. stemayerly advertised blood meatines to have no efficacy whatever, are rejoicing in the fact that Bull's Sarsaparilla is an exception, and that good health invariably follows its user Syphilitic and scrothlous symptoms disappear, the skin becomes clear and free from pimples, the digestion is improved, aches and pain, cease, the weight of the body becomes greater the flesh more solid, ulcerative and consumptive tendencies disappear, the power of endurs ance is increased, weakness, dizzy spells and unnatural fatigue vanish, in a word the user of Ball's Greengraille, becomes nickurat, of good Bull's Sarsaparilla becomes a picture of good bealth and strength. Wm. Radam's Microbe Killer:

Dear Sir—For ten years I have been troubled with dandruff, and had tried numerous remedies, but found no relief. My attention was called to William Radam's Microbe Killer by a friend of mine, and I concluded to try it, and, after several applications, will say that its effects were almost magical. I now believe after a short while I will be entirely cured and my bald pate covered with a new growth of hair. I have been taking it internally, and my health is greatly improved. I consider Mr. Radam's Microbe Killer a blessing to mankind. Yours respectfully, Wait Until Thursday, February 12th, at 9 O'Clock a. m., 44 and 46 Wall Street, Opposite Union Depot.

In consequence of the late New York fire, $57,-000 worth of men's, boy's and children's clothing nas been saved, and the stock has been ordered to be removed to Atlanta, Ga. The large front store, 44 and 46 Wall street, opposite union depot, has been rented by the insurance companies expressly for the purpose of this great fire sale. The building has been closed for one week to arrange for great sale. The entire building will be open again and this great fire insurance sale will commence on Thursday, February 12th, at 90'clock a. m., and last only five days.

Everything will be sold at retail at 35 per cent less than actual cost of manufacture. The stock consists of fine clothing for men, boys and

The appraisers for the insurance company after carefully examining the stock of clothing, con-cluded the same was not so badly damaged as claimed by the assured manufacturers, and failing to agree as to the actual loss, we were forced to take the stock, turn it into money, and the goods must be sold at once in order to make a final settlement. All goods are appraised at 35 cents on the dollar of manufacturers' cost. As this is all we want for them, the great fire sale will enable dollar of manufacturers' cost. As this is all we want for them, the great fire sale will enable people of this city and vicinity to secure their clothing for almost nothing. Sale will positively last only five days.

As the time of this great sale is limited, everything will go off rapidly. This is the first time a sale of such extraordinary magnitude has ever taken place in this city, and will never occur again. In order to show what gigantic bargains will be offered, a few prices are mentioned, and remember this great sale will last for five days only. A splendid suit of men's clothing for $4.60. This suit is well made, all to match, latest style, and really worth $13. Men's extra fine quality suits, made and trimmed in best possible manner, $7.89, guaranteed to be worth $20. High-grade goods, meaning equal to the finest quality tailor work in all styles, Frince Alberts, Cutaways, Sacks in Wide Wales, Clay Worsteds and Cheviots, Silk and Satin Lined, we will sell for $10.25, worth $25. We offer an elegant pair of men's pants for $1.55, made of nice cloth, and they are really worth $4. Men's elegant fall suits, $5.45, worth $15. Men's English worsted cutaway dress suits $7.25, worth $22. Men's English Melton overcoats $6.85, worth $15. Men's English worsted cutaway dress suits $7.25, worth $22. Men's English Melton overcoats $6.85, worth $15. Men's English delton overcoats $8.75, worth $30. A tremendous variety of boys' clothing of the finest quality-all must go at a terrible sacrifice. Do not fail to call and examine goods and prices at this great sale—to be sold at retail. It costs nothing to call and judge for yourself, and you will find the above are positive facts. A chance for such wonderful bargains occurs only once in a lifetime. Remember the address. 44 and 46 Wall street, opposite union depot, occurs only once in a lifetime. Remember the address. 44 and 46 Wall street, opposite union depot,

Atlanta, Ga.
Cut this out and bring this with you. Positively no goods sold and no one allowed in the building until sale commences on Thursday, February 12th, During this great fire insurance clothing sale, the store will remain open until 9 o'clock at night, and Saturday till 11 o'clock p. m. Car fare paid to all purchasers residing out of the city.

THE APOLOGY DUE. Official Report of the Action of the Geological Board. This is the official report of the action of the geological board with reference to Dr. Spencer:

Upon demand of the geological board Professor Spencer made the following statement in writing, which the board instructed the secretary to send for publication to The Augusta Chronicle, The Macon Telegraph and THE ATLANTA CONSTITU

Macon Telegraph and The Athanta ConstituTion.

It was a breach of official decorum to criticise the action of the board, as was done by my letter to The Augusta Chronicle. My article was written after I had been grossly misrepresented by the papers, and through no fault of the board.
This prompted me to write a criticism, which would not have seen print had it been delayed until I had been advised correctly of the action of the board. For this hasty action I at once apologized to the members of the board.

My opinion as to the useless expenditure was based solely upon my report of Mr. Whatley' work.
It was simply the consequence of disagreement in the value of the work, which the board has the supreme control over, and which ought not, therefore, to have been expressed, with Mr. Whatley's work being acceptable under any conditions. The present board is not responsible for any appointments. I did not know the nature of Professor Willet's support, as it appeared in his letter to Mr. Whatley, or I should have acted as they did;
and, therefore, my criticism of personal motives/was premature, and I cheerfully withdraw it, and am satisfied with Professor Willet's support of him.

Wilder, the well-known capitalist of New York, who is known far and wide through the part he has taken in the development of the south, is one of the principal figures in this transaction. General Wilder reached the city early yesterday, and all the norning he, and gentlemen interested with him, were busy with the details of the trans-action which drew them together. Besides General Wilder, there were Mr. H. S. Chamberlain, a very prominent capitalist and iron man, of Chattanooga; Colonel J. H. Moore one of Nashville's wealthy men; Mr. E. East man, of Birmingham, and Mr. J. D. Collins and Mr. P. H. Harralson, of Atlanta. Mr. A. E. Calhoun is the attorney for these gentle men, and was closeted with them vesterday morning, drawing the necessary papers.

THE PROPERTY SOLD. The particular piece of property which changed hands was a tract of something over 1,000 acres lying on both sides of the Chatta-hoochee where the Western and Atlantic crosses the river at Bolton and Iceville. The property is four and a quarter miles from the city limits. This was sold by Mr. J. D. Collins to the gentlemen interested in the Chattahooches Land Company project, the price paid being $125,000.

Mr. Collins has held this land for years. The land has been in the Collins family for ver fifty years and there Jim Collins born. He has refused a number of good offers for the property but has held it, confident of its outcome. "I would not have sold it had I not been interested with these gentlemen," said Mr. Collins yesterday, "and had I not realized that what we are going to do with the property will bring still greater returns, both for us and for Atlanta." WHAT THE SALE MEANS.

This sale is no mere land speculation. These gentlemen propose to build there a town that will virtually be a great manufacturing suburb to Atlanta, and they have the material to work

In this way.

General Wilder and three other gentlemen own a great tract of iron land in Cherokee county—some 2,800 acres in all. Mr. Collins has $140,000 invested in this, Cherokee county property, and these others are in the same company with him. This iron is said to be the finest in the south, if not in the country. It assays at from 65 to 66 4-10.

It assays at from 65 to 66 4-10.

The plans of the company contemplate the shipping of this over to the new town where furnaces, rolling mills and factories are to be established. It is a part of the purposes of the company to encourage other manufacturing concerns by an offer of a site free to every one that will lead there.

one that will locate there.

"Ever since I became interested in Cherokee," said Mr. Collins, "I have had this project in my head. When I got these gentlemen to come and investigate the land here at the river, they at once became enthusiastic

THE IRON PROPERTY.

THE IRON PROPERTY.

All of these gentlemen are outspoken in their enthusiasm over the quality of the ore found on their Cherokee tract.

General Wilder, who probably knows more about the quality of iron than any other capitalist in the south, said: "That ore is the finest I have ever seen. It sounds extravagant to say so, but I am sincere in what I say. I believe the discovery of the quality of that ore, and this discovery of the quality of that ore, and this project of ours to bring it to Atlanta and have it manufactured here, means a very great deal

It is claimed that not only is this ore of a quality unequaled in the southern states, but it is very accessible. The ore stands at an angle of 30 degrees, and veins 100 feet in width have been opened. "All the men you can put on there would hardly make an impression in fifty years," was General Wilder's comment

It is claimed that this one is the finest quality of charcoal iron.

The connection of General Wilder and Mr. The connection of General without and Mr. Chamberlain with this new company means a good deal for Atlanta and Georgia. These gentlemen have been the pioneers in the development of the fron industry in the south and both are prominent in the financial world.

Scratched 28 Years

A Scaly, Itching, Skin Disease with Endless Suffering Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago, it would have saved me $200.00 and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body, and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 scales as a baby's. All I used of them was $5 worth. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture (No. 2, page 47) money. Hooked like the picture (No. 2, page 41) in your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me, thank you a thousand times.
